A Much Disgusted Democrat.

The INTELLIGENCER is fortunate to be able to bring back from Logan county a highly entertaining letter written by Major Ran. Stalnaker to a citizen of that county who has hitherto affiliated with the Democratic party.

It is not worth while to make a fac simile reproduction of this letter, as was done by the INTELLIGENCER with the major's remarkable begro excursion letter in 1892. The letter of Major Stalnaker to Jack O'Neal, of Thacker, is in the INTELLIGENCER's possession. If anybody doubts that it was written by him, it will be somebody not familiar with his picturesque style.

There are thousands of Democrats who feel just as Major Stalnaker does, but not all of them are willing to express themselves with his freedom and over their signatures. From the tone of the outpouring to Jack O'Neal it is a reasonable inference that the ex-ecutary of state of West Virginia is a much disgusted Democrat. Realizing that his party has crippled the industries of West Virginia and played hob with things in general, he does not hesitate to declare his resentment.

This thoughtful and outspoken man gives his fellow Democrats something to think about when he reminds them that there was a day when no Democrat would have been allowed to make a free trade speech in this locality. In that elder day Democrats horeabouts huddled under the wing of the Randall men, protectionists who called themselves Democrats and had no sympathy whatever with the free trade element of the Democratic party.

Now all this is changed. Democratic speeches heard in Wheeling and elsewhere in West Virginia are free trade speeches. In theory the Democratic party has gone over to free trade; in practice it has gone over to trading in tariff schedules in exchange for votes to put through a tariff bill.

Having once more been admitted to Major Stalnaker's confidence, this time via Logan county, the INTELLIGENCER takes the liberty to suggest to him that a party open to such raking criticism as he makes of the Democratic party, is a good party for a patriotic American to get out of.

It is a wise statesman that knows his own tariff bill.—William L. Wilson.

Republican League Convention.
Republicans of West Virginia should make memorable the coming league convention at Fairmont. That enterprising town will do its part to make the visit pleasant. Beyond this it is expected that McKinlay or Reed, perhaps both, will be present.

West Virginia Republicans should require no other incentive, however, than the party benefit that will result from a great gathering and good work. The situation this year should inspire every protectionist with a determination to do his best.

A LONG ISLAND farmer advertised for 2,000 tramps. The first applicant was put to cutting wood and the others did not apply. They were probably hurrying to Washington to give Coxey their moral support.

Knew His Business.

A swindler has been doing considerable business in Germany on the representation that he was looking for titled husbands for American heiresses. There was nothing improbable in the story, and there was a German market for the American product.

It is well known the world over that we raise a line of American heiresses to mate with foreign titles, having no titles of our own to speak of. There is a de-caying European nobility that has no other way to make a stake and falls in gracefully with the American dollar.

The swindler was a shrewd man who understood the conditions and banked on them. His operations were, of course, highly complimentary to the American girl who has money and wants a title.

We shall see whether the Democrats have the nerve to propose a rule to cut off debate in the senate. They used to look on such a proposition as revolutionary.

Wide-Awake Republicans.

The Republicans of Elm Grove are wide awake early in the campaign. Their meeting of Saturday night was a remarkable political gathering to be held before nominations are made. Some of those present were for Governor for Congress, some for Atkinson, and all for the Republican nominee. This is the spirit which should animate Republicans this year above all others.

The Republican party can carry the First district this year if the whole party goes in cordially for the nominee. The contest between aspirants for the nomination should not be allowed to draw men more closely to the man than to the party whose confidence and support he asks.

No aspirant has a right to the nomination. It belongs to the party to dispose of as seems best. After the party has spoken through its proper agencies, provided its choice be worthy, every man who endorses its principles should bow to the will of the majority.

It will be so in this district; and this is why the Democratic nominee will enter a losing race.

Chairman Wilson is determined to go through the senate tariff bill comparing it item by item with his own off-spring, he won't have time to run for congress this year.

The Ball Game Sell.

The ball game that was not played yesterday over the river seems to have been something of a confidence game. It was given out that by arrangement with the authorities the game would not be interfered with.

There was no arrangement with the authorities, the game was so interfered with that it was not allowed to be played, and nearly three thousand people allured to the spot were out their car fare and the price of admission.

Common decency demanded that the gate money be refunded, but the management had other views. The people who paid their money to see a game yesterday are to be admitted to see a game to be played at some time not named in the uncertain future.

Every cent of the gate money should have been handed back, and if the deluded persons who paid it will pool their issues they can probably make the management glad to give it up. After this experience it will be very hard to fool three thousand persons into another scheme of the same sort.

Yesterday's Killing.

The killing of Frank Blakemore yesterday by his son is the principal feature of a remarkably varied Sunday. The man threatened to kill his wife and his son, and made for the boy with a hatchet.

There is everything to show that if the boy had not killed or disabled his father the father would have killed his son, and perhaps his wife. Young Blakemore seems to have shot in defense of his mother's life and his own. He is a lad of good reputation, industrious and sober, and since he was ten years old helped to support the family. The father was a person of very different character.

It is a sad affair, but if the facts are as they were developed the boy is not guilty of murder or any other offense under the law.

It is unspeakably sad when the Democrats of the senate, professedly eager to rush through the tariff bill, have to adjourn that body for want of a quorum. To make matters worse the thing was done when there were many more Democratic than Republican absentees. Why is it that Democrats find legislating so distasteful?

UNDER the Confederacy there was a system of internal taxes that took in almost everything under heaven. For example, the farmer had to pay to the Confederate government one-tenth of his product every year. Are we coming to this?

MAJOR STALNAKER isn't planning excursions for colored voters this year. He is quietly freeing his mind to his friends in the solemn secrecy of confidential correspondence. His Jack O'Neal letter is a ripper.

THERE is no demand for Sunday prize fights in this region, and those who go out to fight and to witness the mill have rather a hard time to find a place to pitch their stakes. This is very creditable to public opinion.

SPEAKING of "the tariff bill" that "must be passed"—which one is it? There are three; as wide apart as the poles, each Democratic and all declared to be in sweet harmony with the Democratic tariff plank.

A LONG ISLAND farmer advertised for 2,000 tramps. The first applicant was put to cutting wood and the others did not apply. They were probably hurrying to Washington to give Coxey their moral support.

The Commonwealters were going to remain in Washington until congress shoveled out the money they demanded. They have changed their minds and moved on. Our Uncle Sam is not to be trifled with.

Is the cotton schedule of the senate amendments to the tariff bill some duties higher than in the McKinlay law. The Democratic party is progressing in a zigzag way by spurts.

Owing to the strike West Virginia coal is selling at four dollars a ton in Chicago. West Virginia coal was getting an increasing hold in that market before the strike, and the present scarcity of other coals will place it in new hands. West Virginia coal has merits and asks only a fair trial.

THE STATE PRESS.

The working people of this country well understand that the depression in business and the reduction in wages is caused by the bad management of the Cleveland administration. This is evident from the sweeping Republican majorities in all the states where elections have recently been held. The tidal wave will reach West Virginia next fall and the Republican majority will be well up in the thousands.—Fairfax Republican.

The Democrats came into power fourteen months ago, with great promises, but the promises, like the good intentions of time-serving repentants, were made by the lips only. How have events vindicated the claim made by the campaign refrain?

PERSONAL POINTS.

Congressman Breckinridge, of Kentucky, made no deductions on his salary account for the days he was absent attending his own trial, and official attention will probably be called to the matter by the sergeant-at-arms.

Baron Hirsch gave a dinner at the Savoy hotel, London, two weeks ago to sixty men, each of whom was said to be a millionaire. The fact that the meal cost but $100 for each guest seems to have caused some disappointment to the public.

The emperor of Austria is having a new throne built at Pesth for his use while acting as king of Hungary. In nearly every other European court the throne has been relegated to the royal lumber rooms and the term is used simply as a metaphor.

WIT AND WISDOM.

"ANNIE LAURIE"

Played at the Wedding of a West Virginia Boy to a Baltimore Girl.

In Baltimore, last Thursday, Miss Annie Laurie Phillips, daughter of Mr. Thomas N. J. Phillips, was married to Mr. Fred Brown Lott, treasurer of the Davis Coal and Coke Company. The ceremony was performed at the Universalist church, by Rev. Royal H. Pullman, pastor of the church. During the ceremony Miss Minnie Lott, a sister of the groom, played "Annie Laurie" on the organ. The bride wore a traveling gown of mode colored satin, trimmed with point lace. She carried a cluster of La France roses. She was preceded to the chancel by little Miss Mary Chase Phillips, who wore a gown of pink India silk and carried a bouquet of flowers. The ushers were George P. Spates, Robert P. Cummins, Edwin F. Herring, Charles L. Michael, Albert Steinbach and H. G. Baxton. The couple left for a wedding trip. They will live in Philadelphia.

At 8 o'clock a dinner was given the ushers at the Northampton. Among those present at the wedding were Mrs. A. C. Lott, the groom's mother, Mrs. T. Phillips, Misses Emma L. Heinbach, Laura C. Dunnington, of Fairmont, W. Va., Minnie M. Lott, Estelle Macheal, Laura B. Macheal, E. J. Blatter, Hon. S. B. Elkins, Messrs. C. M. Hendley, Frank Woods and J. R. Macheal.

Mr. Lott, the groom, who is well known throughout this state, is a Fairmont boy, and has many relatives there. He has been connected with the Davis-Elkins coal and railroad interests since boyhood, and worked himself up from the position of private secretary to Mr. Davis to that of treasurer of the company.

Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the eustachian tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever: nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.
